The work is the outcome of a series of long investigations in Parliamentary committee, in the years 1883, 1884 and 1885. The supporters of the canal, who spent ID50,000 in obtaining the necessary act, were the manufacturers and merchants of Manchester, and their principal opponent was the corporation of Liverpool. With the use of the electric light, steamers will be able to navigate by night as well as by day. Some no tion of the capacity of the canal may be drawn when the depth is compared with the Suez and Amsterdam canals The minimum width of the bottom of the Suez Canal is 72 feet, and of the Amsterdam, 88 feet 7 inches, while the Manchester Canal has a width of 120 feet. With regard to raw cotton, firms in the district owning 18,000,000 spindles, declare that nearly all the cotton they use will be brought by the canal. Of outward cargo there will be no lack, and the textile manufacturers have testified to their belief that about five hundred thousand tons per annum will be dispatched by the new canal:

The financial success of the enormous indertaking seems assured. The pro-noters of the canal are confident of their ability to secure very large and remunerative traffic. The estimates of profit based upon the capital originally proposed were very favorable. The original capital of £8,000,000, has, however, now grown to nearly double that amount, and the anticipations of profit are not now so sanguine as they for-merly were. That there are, however, enormous possibilities in the traffic cannot be disputed.

till afternoon, and the event of the morning and early afternoon was the reception at the White House. The Executive Mansion was tastefully though not elaborately decorated for the occasion with wreaths of smilax twined about the chandellers and potted foliage and flowering plants were suitably disposed about the room, from which daylight was excluded, and the chandeliers took its place. The reception room was more elabo rately decorated than the rest of the house, being brightened with palms tropical plants, Chinese primroses lilacs, carnations, tulips and white hyacinths. Promptly at 11 o'clock the Marine Band struck up "Hall to the Chief" and the receiving party came down the main stairway to the blue room. The President led, with Mrs. Cleveland on his arm. This was her first public appearance since the birth of little Esther, and she was the center of all eyes as she came down, bowing and smiling. The appearance at the White House The appearance at the White House of the woman who was arrested there was not a surprise to the officers there, as Capt. Dexter, on Saturday, had received a letter from her, anouncing that she would be on hand today to take possession of the White House. She did not go there, she said, to see the President, but merely to see one of the doorkeepers. They, seeing that she was not exactly in her right mind. she was not exactly in her right mind, had her taken away. She gave her name as Mrs. Losey, a widow, whose residence is in this city.

Mrs. Losey has been defrauded of considerable money, left her by her pa-rents in Europe. She tried to recover it by writing letters, but evidently did not get much encouragement, and became impressed with the idea that she might be able to obtain her fortune through the government, and it was undoubtedly with some idea that President Cleveland ought to settle the claim for her that she went to the White House today. She will be de-tained until her friends are heard from.

BOSTON, Jan. 2 .- (By the Asso lated Press.) The Globe Theater was Hanlon's "Superba" company ruined by fire, early this morning. Every engine that can be spared is being used to protect adjacent property. At this hour, 2:45 a.m., a large six-stroy building just erected by the Harvard Col-lege trustees, has caught, and it looks as if the entire block on the Harrisonavenue extension will be swallowed up. On the Essex-street side, adjoining the theater, are valuable blocks of buildings occupied by large business concerns. The streets of the city are in total darkness, and the electric cars have ceased to run owing to the cur-rent being turned off. The heavens are illuminated with the blaze, which can be seen for miles around. Sparks from the fire traveled with the wind two and three blocks away, and a most careful watch is being kept by a cordon of policemen. The first alarm was given at 1:15 a m., and was quickly followed by a second and third alarm. It is thought the fire started in the coat-room of the theater, by some unknown person throwing a lighted cigarette on the floor. The estimated loss on the thea-ter is in the neighborhood of $500,000, and that of the Hanlon company at

PAWTUCKET, (R. I.) Jan. 1.-(By the Associated Press.) At the banquet of the Garfield Club, tonight, ex-Minister John L. Stevens delivered an address. He declared that the return of Queen Liliuokalani to the throne by any outside force or intimidation, by any diplomatic pressure or chicanery, would be a public crime, by whomsoever perpetrated. It would make Hawaii a cond Singapore or Hong Kong. This might be all very well for a British colony, but was not adapted to American institutions, and not intended for an American form of government. The Executive of this great republic. he said, has assumed a hostile attitude to the American colony in the Hawaiian Islands. When Mr. Cleveland's emis-sary reached the islands, last March, there was no part of the United States more peaceable, for the monarchy dead, and official corruption had been put an end to. This same emissary bore letters of credence to representabore letters of credence to representa-tive Americans, whom he subsequently

THE OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION.

Sittings Will Be Held Regularly, but Testi-mony May Be Delayed. WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(By the As-coclated Press.) The Senate committee investigating the alleged irregularities in the diplomatic relations between the country and Hawaii, will resume its sittings tomorrow. It is believed it will be possible to have a full committee, and it is presumed that hereafter the investigation will proceed regularly.

All who have yet been communicated with upon the subject have signified a willingness to come to Washington for that purpose without making necessary the resort to the process of form ally serving subpoenas. It has been expected that Mr. Stevens would appear early and give his testimony, but his health is liable to prevent. Thus, even with all members of the committee present and prepared to go forward with the work, the inquiry may be de-layed indefinitely.

Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 1.—(By the ussociated Press.) The application for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Mitchell and Corbett will be argued of Mitchell and Corbett will be argued on Wednesday, instead of tomorrow. The matter was postponed to give the Governor more time to file instructions, if he has any. The athletic club is very sanguine of bringing off the fight. The lawyers say it will be impossible for the Governor to declare martial law after the courts have decided that to law is violated, unless he assumes no law is violated, unless he assumes the arbitrary powers of dictator. The opinion is that he will hardly do that. The lawyers say that a requisition for Mitchell from Mississippi, on ac-count of his part in the Richburg af-fair, will not issue, because the statute of limitations bars any proceeding at fair, will not issue, because the statute of limitations bars any proceeding at this late day.

Steve O'Donnell and Jim Hall, who assist in training Mitchell, passed through Jacksonville today en route to St. Augustine, where the Englishman is quartered. Fred Taral, the well-known jockey, has also arrived. Gov. Mitchell passed through Jacksonville this morning, en route to Tallahasse, but, while here, let drop no hint as to how he proposes to stop the fight if Judge Call decides that glove contests are not Hegal. The story is current in sporting circles that the managers of the athletic club had inside information that the Governor would look to Sheriff Broward to stop the fight, and that, if he falled, he would suspend the latter from office. The truth is, everything is uncertain, for nobody knows what Gov. Mitchell will do save the Governor himself, and he is not divulging his plans.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—John L. Sullivan declares his intention of challenging the winner of the Corbett-Mitchell fight. He believes that, with proper traditing, he can whip either man. Charley Johnson says that if Sullivan will train conscientiously, and do will back him for $20,000. To this Sullivan replied: "I will." THE BIG FELLOW.

New Anti-Professional Rules Go Into Effect at Harvard. CAMBRIDGE (Mass.,) Jan. 1.—(By the Associated Press.) Today the new athletic rules, which are to purify Harvard athletics, went into effect. They are the final product of many years of work by old Harvard coachers, and men who are feeders in athletics. The primary purpose of the rules going into effect today is to purify all individual and team athletics from any tinge of professionalism. These rules are drawn up and signed by Bertram G. Mrs. Lease Indulges in a Dispatch to the Federation of Labor.

TOPEKA, Jan. 1.—(By the Associated Press.) Mrs. Lease today sent the following telegram to the State Federation of Labor, in session at Leavenworth Kan. Leavenworth, Kan:

"I desire to join my voice with yours and tender time and money in de-nouncing the executive power that has recognized the "rats" and scoundrels and ignored the labor organization recognized the "rats" and scoundrels and ignored the labor organization principles of the People's party, eternally unassailable. Through them we will triumph, but those betraying the trust and cause of the people will pass out of sight by the labor vote."

Mrs. Lease today employed Judge Doster to assist Eugene Hagan in prosecuting her suit against the Governor. The first blow in the courts will be struck tomorrow morning in an application to the Supreme Court for an injunction preventing F. F. Freeborn from attempting to take Mrs. Lease's place on the board.

Mrs. Lease leaves tomorrow morning for Olathe to attend a meeting of the board. This meeting was to have been held at Winfield, but the place was changed by order of Mrs. Lease. The matter was afterward brought to the attention of Gov. Lewelling, and he immediately telegraphed to the members that Mrs. Lease was no longer connected with the board, and instructed them to pay no attention to her orders. Mrs. Lease last night, however, stated that there would be a full meeting at Olathe tomorrow.

U. S. CONGRESS.

The Financial Question May Wait Until the Tariff is Passed Upon.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(By the Associated Press.) It is generally agreed among Democratic Senators that the financial question shall remain untouched in Congress until the tariff, bill is disposed of. Senator Voorhees said today that no effort whatever would be made to press his silver bill until the made to press his silver bill until the reached, however, he thought it would prove a solution of the problem.

Mr. Hand also announces that he will not try to get his free coinage bill up in the House until the tariff bill is passed.

Senator Carlisle's bond issue proposition will also probably give way to the tariff bill, as the latter is considered a matter of primary importance, and its decision may put matters in such condition as to make the issuance of bonds unnecessary. Furthermore, it is known that the silver men approve of bonds, and are prepared to vote for their issue against any man who does not favor silver, hence there need be no cause for surprise if the calling up of the bond proposition may be delayed so long as to render it impolitic to take it up at all.

TAX FEATURES.

A Fruitless Discussion of the Income and Internal Revenue Propositions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(By the Associated Press.) The Democratic members of the Ways and Means Commitbers of the Ways and Means Committee met tonight to decide upon the income-tax question, and internal revenue features of the tariff bill. Mr. Bynum's absence prevented a vote on the income-tax question, and, after a session of three hours, the committee adjourned till tomorrow at 4 o'clock.

The discussion tonight was general, covering the entire question of how the deficit in the revenues may be met. The issue between the members is whether the income tax shall be upon individual incomes, or simply upon incomes from corporations. The weight of the administration's influence was thrown strongly against the individual tax proposition.

the Irrigation Problem.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(By the As-

The scientists of the survey have completed a chart, showing the mean annual run-off in streams of the United States. It was completed under direction of Geologist F. H. Newell, and is the first map of its character ever made. It is the result of about four-teen years' study, though only since six years ago has the investigation been conducted on an extensive scale. Dur-ing the past six years, all large rivers in the country have been gauged by the survey scientists.

do battle, make capture, or give up the chase.

It has been four days since Evans bid addeu to the Fresno jail officials. Durthis time his clever escape has been the principal topic discussed, and no phase of the case has been unnoticed. It has been suggested by some of Evans's supposed friends that he has given the officers the dodge, and is now many miles from their snowy camps in Sampson's Flat. They reason that Evans is too clever to think of trying to battle with the mountain storms in his condition, and, while there is no doubt that he pretended to go up the flume from Sanger, that after dark on Friday evening he was met by a fresh team and hurriedly taken in the opposite direction, doing his traveling only by night.

If it were not that this is the view of Evans's friends, it would seem quite probable that it was correct, and that the officers are on a cold trail. The idea most general, however, is that Evans had a camp and supplies awaiting him in his familiar mountain rendezvous, and that he and his comrade, Morrell, are snugly sheltered from the

The Members of a Family Found Roasting is A MYSTERY.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 1.—(By the Associated Press.) A special to the Times from Independence, Kan., says that one of the most horrifying discoveries was made this morning, when Al was made this morning, when Al Brown, son-in-law of George W. Read, manager of the Long Bell Lumber Company, broke into the home of the latter and found Read clad only in his night-clothes, sitting dead in his chair before a hot stove fed by natural gas. The body was in an advanced stage of decomposition. Edith Scott, a domestic of the family, was lying dead on the floor of her room, and Mrs. Read and her five-year-old son were in bed, the boy dying and the mother unconscious. The terrible tragedy stands in mpstery. Hany theories are current as to the cause, one being asphyxiation, another foul play. The fact that two gas stoves in the house were burning at full force practically explodes the theory of asphyxiation, and the fact that no bruises were found on either of the persons renders the murder theory almost incredible, leaving accidental poisoning as the most probable cause.

None of the family had been seen later than Saurday evening, leaving no doubt that Read and the domestic had been dead for thirty-six hours before the discovery. Every room in the house was intensely hot, and there being no ventilation the fumes from the badly-decomposed bodies of the dead were stifling.

Most of the active members of the corps assembled upon the platform upon arrival at the church, the band being assigned the place of honor in the front row; but there was also a sprinkling of red-shirted men and poke-bonneted lassies among the audience in the body and galleries.

As announced, the proceedings, which were more in the nature of a musical entertainment than a religious service, consisted for the most part of songs, although these were at intervals interspersed by remarks from recruits, privates and officers, in order to vary the monotony.

The programme consisted of solos, duets and choruses, selections by the band, and upon various instruments, and the music, well rendered throughout, ranged from grave to gay, and "from the sublime to the ridiculous," as the captain aptly expressed it, in a manner that was somewhat startling to those to whom the Salvationists methods were a novelty.

The most striking feature of the service was the team work of a couple of reformed minstrels, one of whom picked a banjo, while the other rattled the "ivories." Their minstrel songs and gags, adapted to suit the occasion, being vociferously encored every time they made their appearance.

A Los Angeles Man's Scheme—The City Overrun With Tramps.

The announcement is made that, on January 17. Lewis R. Works and Miss Edna Pierce will be married. Both are socially prominent, and the wedding will be a very elaborate affair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Setton entertained over one hundred and fifty guests at their beautiful home on Florence Heights, on Thursday evening. The house was decorated more lavishly than a private residence ever was before here for a similar purpose.

Timothy Ryan recently applied to the Council for a twenty-five-year lease of 300 acres of the City Park. He claims to have had an offer of $300 per year and a large tract of land to carry out his scheme at Los Angeles, but, for some reason, prefers to operate here. The Council has regarded the proposition very gingerly, inasmuch as the city has been roped in on schemes too many times before. The matter is in the hands of a committee. The mossbacks in town are pretty generally opposed to the proposition, but more progressive men want to see it accepted, as it would improve the great, bleak park, as it cannot be otherwise improved in many years.

MANY COMPLAINTS. The Kolly Mission Nuisance Still Allowed to Exist.

Complaints regarding the foul nuisance created by Kelly's Mission, at the First-street viaduct continue to pour in, but, as yet, no action has been taken by the health authorities to remedy the evil which seems to be directly within the latter's department and jurisdiction.

Mrs. C. Morgan called upon Health Officer Powers yesterday and stated Mrs. C. Morgan caned upon Heatin Officer Powers yesterday and stated that the yard of the mission, which adjoins her home, was well-nigh un-bearable, so deep has the rapidly-ac-cumulating filth become. Mrs. Morcumulating filth become. Mrs. Morgan says that the habitues of the place even climb over the fence into her yard, and that by reason of their disregard of private rights, vermin from their clothing and effects have been spread everywhere.

A Times reporter visited the place several days ago, and found the Kelly yard in a horrible condition, and yesterday it presented even a werse appearance than it ever has done previous to this time. Every nook and corner is literally strewn with filth that gives off a pestilential odor most unpleasant to experience.

When Mrs. Morgan called at the health office yesterday she was given no satisfaction, and the neighborhood about Kelly's home are inclined to criticise severely the action of Dr. Powers in allowing such a breeding-place of disease to exist within the city limits. limits.

Without oubt, many of the fearful crimes which have disgraced the past would not have been perpetrated had the authors of them been convinced that the law would surely be enforced. As It is we have got to a point in this coun try where punishment of crime is the exception rather than the rule. This thing must stop. The era of maudlin sentimentality must come to an end. and the sword of justice must be unsheathed. Otherwise we must expect to see crime and anarchy run riot in the land. As in the case of an epidemic it is much easier to arrest its march if precautions are taken in time. Should we hesitate too long with the strict enent of the law, regardless of find that we have arrived at a point where the civil branch of the govern-ment is unable to cope with the condition which confronts us. condition for tree-planting, and the set-ting out of ornamental bushes and plants. The work will not be laborious, but can be easily accomplished, and The British Parliament has further discussed the proposal of the United States for the settlement of interna-tional disputes by arbitration. It is to be hoped that something definite may come of this discussion. Of course England and America alone rould not bring about the universal adoption of arbitration, but should these two great favor of the system, and adopt it, they would wield an immense influence over countries. There can be no doubt that the rulers of many European counaments, which assume a more immense and expensive shape from year to year.

They know that a great danger lurks in these immense armies, for the people chafe under the enormous burden of debt which they have to carry, and their thoughts are naturally directed toward revolution. For this reason we believe that a proposition for general disarmament, and the adoption of arbi tration in the settlement of interna tional disputes would be seriously en-tertained by several of the leading nations of Europe: The difficulty would be the method in agreeing upon the manner in which such disarmament should take place, as these great poware very suspicious of each other and are not above taking what in ordi nary life would be considered a mean advantage of each other when they have a chance. Another difficulty would be found in the officers of the armies, who would find themselve with their occupation gone, and, of course, would strenuously object to any such movement. Altogether if would not be an easy job. Neither was the abolition of slavery in the United State an easy job; but it was accomplished. and it is not too much to hope that the opening year of the twentieth century may witness the inauguration of this still greater reform.

THE TRUTH IS GOOD ENOUGH.

A dispatch from Wyoming states that a passenger coach is missing, and it is feared that the coach and the passengers and driver have been lost in the snow, and that all on board have perished with cold. It is curious to read about such accidents as this while one is sitting under the welcome shade a porch or tree. We who are used to this climate take it as a matter of ourse, but new arrivals from the East never get tired of enthusiastically praising this summer weather which we enjoy at Christmas time. After all, such people are the very best kind of advertising agencies for Southern California, doing more good than any amount of advertising. The Eastern man has an idea that the average Californian, especially the California "boomer," is a great liar, and is apt to take a large discount of what he reads about this section when the matter is prepared by Californians. But when Uncle John or Aunt Maria or brother Jack, none of whom could tell a lie, writes back home describing the wenders and beauties of the promised land they cannot help but believe it, and the consequence is that the Cali-fornia fever strikes the settlement, and there is a big demand for literature of all kinds on the subject, to which more respectful attention is henceforth given. This, indeed, is the great advantage of this section, and one which furnishes encouragement to those who are ennamely, that the truth is better than anything that we can describe within the bounds of reason, so that we are sure that those who may be induced to come here through representations which have been made to them will not be disappointed, unless those people are altogether unreasonable in their de sires. Of course it is true that in this, as in other sections, there is a small class of irresponsible people who make wild and misleading assertions about Southern California, and this was escounty authorities liberally to aid pecially the case during the real estate descriptive literature about Southern California, whether in the shape of newspaper articles or of pamphlets which has been sent out during the past few years has been rather within than over the mark. Writers are be ginning to realize that exaggeration in essary, but is bound to do us harm But what what public improvements and that, as The Times has frequently stated, the truth about Southern Cali does Los Angeles propose making? There is no lack of improvements that might be inaugurated, among them fornia is good enough.

A MISLEADING MAP.

We regret to note that in the excellent and interesting issue of the San Francisco Chronicle, published on Sunday, a page is devoted to a reproduc "climatic map" of California, which a few years ago justly created so much indignation in this section. The map was published by the Southern Pacific mpany, which has a large amount of land to dispose of in the San Joaquin Valley, and comparatively little in Southern California. It shows that the 'mean annual temperature" of Southern California, from Santa Barbara to San Diego, is the same as that of the San Joaquin Valley, from Tehachepi to Sacramento. Just think of the idea that Los Angeles and Santa Monica and San Diego have a similar climate to that of Bakersfield and Fresno and, Merced! Of course, every one who has given the matter a thought knows that 'mean annual temperature" is a fraud. The "mean" temperature of a place where the thermometer sinks to 20 deg. below zero in winter and rises to 120 city to put its idlers to work than to that of a place where it averages 80 deg. in summer and 60 deg. in winter. But new arrivals from the East do not consider these facts, and the map in or designed by interested persons for the purpose of misleading such people. adequate efforts to that end. While The Chronicle, which has shown a consistent desire to do justice to all parts of the State, has doubtless been led to publish this map_through inadvertence.

One of the most important developments of the century, and one which will have a pronounced bearing on England's industrial welfare, is the Manchester ship canal, which the dispatches state is an assured fact. By means of this canal, which will allow steamers to reach Manchester within ten hours from Liverpool, it is estimated that at least 105,000 tons of fruits and vegetables, 300,000 tons of sugar, cotton to supply its 18,000,000 spindles, and one-half the grain now landed at Liverpool, will be taken di-rect to Manchester, at no increase of freight rates charged by merchant ves sels on long voyages to the former port Textile manufacturers alone, estimate that 500,000 tons of freight will annually be exported through the canal. Liverpool will be injured by the change, are asking for. They do not want the dole of the pauper, but the wages of honest labor. These will kindle the fire but the increased competition resulting from the rivalry, may prove healthy stimulus for both cities.

On New Year's day J. W. Butler, the veteran president of the J. W. Butler Paper Company of Chicago, issued, on Paper Company of Chicago, issued, on behalf of his company, a card of greet-ing, headed, "Fifty Years, 1844-1894," and addressed "To the multitudes of friends of the later forties, the fifties, the sixties, the seventies, the eighties and the early nineties: We wish you the compliments of the season and added years, with renewed health, constant peace and enlarged prosperity, as we enter our second half century." This amiable and patriotic old gentle man has seen it all himself, and still stays with the proposition. He sells paper, leaves his office at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, lunches at the Union League Club, goes a-fishing on the Des-plaines, and has a regular good time "right stret along."

The House Committee on Banking partments in other cities to send copies of their reports to the heads of similar departments in Los Angeles, with a request for an exchange. Such reports enable valuable comparisons to be made with the manner in which similar business is conducted in other cities. As stated, economy is a most desirable and necessary thing in the conducting of our city and county governments, but in this case the City Council appears, to pay some attention to the views of interesting the divided on the subject of repealing the divided on the people in this matter, so as not to unnecessarily increase the present friction on the monetary question.

There must be something in the at mosphere of San Francisco that exercises a particular disturbing effect on the human mind. Scarcely a day goes by that a suicide, or murder, or, haps both, is not reported from enterprising city. It is to be hoped that during the Midwinter Fair the city by the Golden Gate will be on its good behavior, so as not to shock the sen-sibilities of our visitors, and make them believe that the stories which have heard about the "wild and woolly West" are true.

The Senate committee, investigating this country's relations in Hawaii should not make the mistake of omit-ting to take ex-Minister Stevens's tesimony. If his health will not allow him to proceed to Washington, the light which he can throw on vexed points in the problem should be taken by affidavit and forwarded from his place of sojourn.

The people of Kentucky have lost their case so far against the lotteries in that State, and they will resume operations pending further action. It does seem to be an awfully difficult thing to win a case when there is a large amount of money involved on one side and only the public interest on the

AMUSEMENT RECORD. AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.-Barlov Bros.' minstrels drew two big houses at the Los Angeles yesterday, and, while the performance was of the usual burnt-cork variety, the audiences ap-peared to be filled with delight. A minstrel show will draw when a Booth or an Irving will play to a house full of echoes, and the record for the Last or an Irving will play to a house full of echoes, and the record for the last few days would appear to demonstrate that the theater-going public does not want acting on the stage, but horse-plays, gags, topical songs and other riotous amusements, over which they can join "de kids upstairs" in wild war-whoops of glee. The jokes last night were on the usual order, a few bright and new, but many of them reminiscent of the days of Joe Miller; yet to a minstrel audience everything goes, and the most antiquated jest seems to hunt out in the audience a whole lot of new people, to whom it is as fresh as the flowers that bloom in the spring.

The Barlow troupe is weakest in the olio, as none of the singing voices are above mediocrity, unless we except that of Howard Powers, who sang "After the Play" with sweetness and expression. The topical songs are bad—very bad. All the specialty turns are clever, Scott in "The Frog's Pastime," the Morrisey Bros. in a knockabout act, Markham and Berry in a musical melange, and the Kennard Bros., acrobats and pantomimists, being especially so. There will be another performance tonight.

for his views on the railroad situation, respecially the present condition of the transcontinental systems, called attention to an interview published in the Denver Republican of December 28, from which the following extracts are "Too many railroad companies for the business, too much competition, rates not compensating, adverse State legislation, too great cost of operating, legislation, too great cost of operating, and wages and expenses. The evil is a radical one, affecting all roads, especially those in the West, where the haul is long, and most of the freight will not stand high rates and allow any margin to the producer, the average rate on through lines being about three-fourths of a cent per ton per three-fourths of a cent per ton per mile, whereas the average in England

2 cents per mile.
"The outcome of the present condition and tendency of railway property, it is impossible to predict. Many of the branch lines which have loaded down the stems never should have been built, and cannot for years be made self-sus taining. The capital of these lines must be reduced one-half, or more, and even then it is doubtful if many can be made to pay interest on even one-half their cost. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe has been badly managed for many years, by incompetent, even for many years, by incompetent, even if honest men. Many of their acts and contracts, tested by the rules of ordinary business men of prudence and integrity, will not bear examination. "The saddest fact is, that the loss of some hundreds of millions of money invested by the almost criminal representations of incompetent or dishones managers, falls upon poor people, who have put their savings of years into on and other transcontinental se-

"A thousand millions of dollars will "A thousand millions of dollars will not measure the losses of such persons in the past five years, and the worst fact is that this is not yet at an end. There has been a constant depreciation in value of most Western railway properties. It looks now as though nearly one-half the railway mileage of the country will, within another decade, be operated by the courts. The effect of this is far reaching on the husiness of the country, and must rebe operated by the courts. The effect of this is far reaching on the business of the country, and must retard seriously the return of prosperity."

On politics, Judge Strong is quoted in the same interview as saying:

"Now the heavy President is undertaking to sit down on a product, not of one State, but of all the products of all the States, and if he can compel a party caucus and get all his Southern brigadiers and Northern Tammanites and college doctrinaires in economics to obey and to fall into, line, then the Wilson bill, or something akin to it, will become a law, and then you ask—What? Then, I say God only knows! But everybody knows that there must and will be an indefinite period of diminished business, of industrial prostration of uncertain values and of unemployed labor. For how long, no one can predict. It is true that no legislation, however unwise, can repress American energy or destroy the countion, however urwise, can repress American energy or destroy the coun-try. But under the threatened legisla-tion there will be much suffering, and many heretofore well-to-do families will not know which way to turn or what to do.

"A reaction has come, and would have come under any administration. No nation or people can have an eternal boom. Every financial boom is like the boom of a cannon; it is followed by a wave of suffering.

a wave of suffering.

"But the remedy is not the one proposed by Dr. Cleveland and the Southern faculty. It is a strange spectacle. that Ways and Means Committee of the government of the richest nation, the most proeperous and most intelligent, and the most inventive, most enterprising the world has ever seen—a nation with 'more 'varied industries than has ever existed before in any country on earth, whose yearly industrial product is several thousand millions of dollars.

"With a Ways and Means Committee

than has ever existed before in any country on earth, whose yearly industrial product is several thousand—millions of dollars.

"With a Ways and Means Committee of Congress largely composed of and controlled by illiterate Southern country lawyers, not one of whom has ever had capacity to earn a competence, or could live a year without the salary the government pays him, and with a President elected by the aid of the same constituency, that elected the majority of that committee, and representing a party that would have no natural existence today except for the support of the same voters that elected the majority of that committee to Congress, well may the great industries of the country fear and tremble under such a threatened disaster!

"You ask me what else can the Democratic party do? I answer that it could do as Jackson did when the country was on the brink of rebellion, growing out of the Whig tariff of 1824 and 1828. It could adopt a system of gradual reduction on dutles, covering a period of, say, ten years, which would enable the industries to adapt themselves to the change, and would not lead to well-nigh universal loss of capital and corresponding loss to labor. Then, if in a little over two years from now the people choose either to continue the policy of reduction of duties, or to return to something like the present schedule, no such universal business disaster in the meantime will result as must follow a radical, sweeping and most unwise and impolitic bill, such as is now before Congress.

"I can't help feeling that the intelligent and thinking business Democratis of the country, who have real interests at take, should give their President to understand that they will not be held in so-called party control on a purely financial proposition by a few men who have nothing at stake but their Congressional salary. But I like to get away from Washington, and from the discouraging and disheartening incompetency of would-be political leaders in dealing with economic and industrial problems a frecting the

THE ONLY WIGGINS. Walter Besant and the Tireless Champion o

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) When I was the Editor of The Times.) When I was a boy, at Phillips Exeter Academy, in New Hampshire, right close to the house where Daniel Webster, nearly a century ago, boarded when he was preparing for college, there was a wheelwright's shop, with a sign rather the worse for wear, on which were painted these words:

"AMI R. WIGGINS."

We 'cademy boys' had a standing joke, when going by the wheelwright's the worse for wear, on which were painted these words:

"AMI R. WIGGINS."

We 'cademy boys' had a standing joke, when going by the wheelwright's shop, for one would begin an object lesson in legic over that old sign, and also within the hearing of the worthy wagon-maker. In a high-pitched tone, one boy would begin: "Am I R. Wiggins or am I not R. Wiggins, who in the name of Sam Hill art I?" I was reminded of that old time yesterday, when looking over the Cosmopolitan Magazine for December, which is illustrated in a most oniginal manner. For instance, taking Walter Besant's article "On American Notes in the Year of the Fair," you will see on the borders of several pages, heads of Americans (supposed to be typical.) drawn with great cleverness, by F. G. Atwood. Among these heads stands out in bold relief that of our "onliest" Frank Wiggins, which, the head, of course, is not as large as life, but, as the showman said, it is "twice as natural." You might fancy that, Frank is saying: "Am I Frank Wiggins?" etc., etc. But he is asking nothing of the kind. Mr. Besant, however, has put right opposite Frank's head these words: "The outward symbol (the American fiag) is the readlest teacher; let them never forget they live under the Stars and the Stripes; let them learn-Germans, Norweglans, Italians, Irishmen—what it means to belong to the great republic."

Now, that is what Mr. Besant makes the "executive officer of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce" say; but I confess that I was skeptical, for who at "the greatest show on earth," in Chicago, ever heard Mr. W. speak these words, without uttering something in favor of Southern California? Why, if you should dissect the full lengthiness of the man, and take out his heart, you would find written thereon, in capital letters, "SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA." Bent on finding out the "true inwardness" of our fellow-townsman's portrait in the Cosmopolitan, I was earnestly engaged in talking 'spuds,' to an old hayseed from Indiana—the same old fellow those portrait is at the left hand c turned-down shirt-collar, and expressively pitched hat; it's Wiggins all over.

By the way, his idea of an elephant made of oranges at thee Midwinter Fair is not a bad one. Look at it for a moment: The domesticated elephant is from India; so is the orange. The Persian name for "India" is "Narañja," or "Narange," and when the fruit was thence introduced into Persia the natives gave it the name from whence it came. In process of time the people of Southern Europe corrupted the word into "laranja," "arange," "aurange," "orange." Elephants from India and oranges from India go well together.

Before closing this communication I wish to call attention to Mr. Besant's article already referred to. It is certainly a remarkable one, and he is the only English author of any eminence, who has impartially and philosophically had the courage to do us justice. He has treated knowingly of the difference between Americans and Englishmen. He shows that the egregrious error of the English in their attitude toward our country from 1861 to 1865 originated in their inability, arising from ignorance and prejudice, to understand the situation. Mr. Besant does not heeitate to tell his countrymen in regard to their mistake in their position toward the North during the "Confederate war." that it (the mistake) forms a "curious history of wrong-headedness and ignorance." Mr. Besant continues: "This (mistake) was a big thing. The things which the English traveler iff the States now notices are little things," and John Bull is apt to dwell on this petty difference and make a book about America, "which holds up to ridicule the whole nation on account of these differences." Such a British traveler Mr. Besant represents as asking with indignation: "The Americans a great na-I could not get the whole time I was there, such a single thing as English mustard. The Americans a great nation? Weil, sir, all that I can say is that their breakfast in the Wagner car is a greasy pretense," and so on. The whole article is full of food for thought, and while it does full justice to the United States, it reads a lesson both to the ignorant John Bull and to the bumptious, spread-eagle American. oumptious, spread-eagle American. This affair can be put over any plain evening skirt, and will transform the wearer into a butterfly at once. Pannier belts are also made of galoon, and have bands draped to hang over and define the hips.

The very young girl is not put into a violently spreading skirt by the most thoughtful dressmakers. The slenderness of her pretty hips is suggested by the lines allowed her skirt. It is the older woman, or the young matron, with figure slightly wide at the hips, who takes advantage of the spreading skirt.

The mandolin case is checked at the depot, and, when the evening comes, the change is made in a few moments, and she meets her escort just as if she had only come in on the train. A printed circular, bearing the para-phrased motto, "Many a nickle makes a muckle," has been issued by the board of directors of the Los Angeles Con-solidated Electric Railway Company, which relates, officially, the story of the abolition of passes for the present year. Though the news was broken as gently as possible by The Times Sunday morn-ing, to the seven hundred or more pass-holders who had free rides in 1893, the circulars, which ostensibly were in-tended to be sent privately to expectant citizens in lieu of the coveted re newed pasteboards, will be quoted

"It has become absolutely necessary to practice rigid economy in the management of this property. Its board of directors accordingly adopted a resolution, at a meeting held December 20, 1893, directing that no free transportation of any kind (except only as specified in the franchise) shall be granted to any person during the year 1894.

"The board of directors of the Main Street and Agricultural Park Company, and of the Temple-street cable line, have taken like action.

"This company having found it necessary, in order to do business without loss, to cut down the wages of its employees, no good reason exists for the continuance of the free-pass system, which has become a burden, and has cost this company thousands of dollars annually. To continue the system would be an injustice both to the company and to its employees, who have in good faith accepted the reduction recently made in their wages.

"This action has been hastened by the demand of the principal owners of the property, whose representatives recently visited this city, and can see no reason why this serious leak should not be stopped.

We rust, therefore, that you will appreate the situation, and accept the rule in that good faith which is one of your nown characterictics."

EVEN EMPLOYEES SUFFER.

EVEN EMPLOYEES SUFFER.

In line with what The Times printed Sunday morning about the reduction of the number of passes issued this year by the California railroads, the San Francisco Examiner, of the same date, had this:

"Wishing you a happy New Year, has no cheerful meaning to the army of clerks and employees of the Southern Pacific Company throughout the State, for this stereotyped greeting signifies that in another day they are to lose the passes that for so many years have entitled them to ride free over the railroads governed by the big corporation by which they are employed. There are at least 1000 in this city who will be affected by the new rule.

"It is true that with the beginning of 1894 the pass system formerly in vogue will be very materially curtailed, said Vice-President Towne yesterday. Only heads of departments and their principal assistants will be accorded the privilege of having passes. Other employees will be given low mile discontinuance of the "The discontinuance of the employees' annual or season passes was determined on after a thorough examination of the subject by the directors of the company, who decided that employees should be required to pay at least enough to cover the cost of their transportation to and from their homes in the suburbs or to other points visited by them when not engaged in the actual business of the company. "Though this may appear reasonable to the average passenger, who has to pay full fare, the employees, who have become accustomed to free rides, strenuously object to the innovation." "Employees living in Oakland, Alameda or Berkeley will be compelled to pay 2½ cents a trip." The present employees' twenty-ride ticket for $1 between San Francisco and Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley will be continued for the use of employees and dependent members of their families.

"Employees of the road are not the only ones who will be in mourning after the beginning of the new year. There will be a general and sweeping reduction of the issuance of passes that will reach to the camps of the political industrialists, and also put a stop to the hitherto constant migration of some of the self-important henchmen.

The owners of the Dodge City, Montezuma and Trinidad Railroad have been restrained by Judge Abbott of the Twenty-seventh Judicial District from taking up rails and ties and hauling them out of the country. The road is twenty-seven miles long, and runs from Dodge City, Kan., to Montezuma, the county seat of Gray county. It was originally planned to build 200 miles in Kansas, but crop failures and hard times came, and construction was stopped at Montezuma. The road was stopped at Montezuma of the company owes no bonded debts. It was purely the personal enterprise of J. S. Soule of New York. The road never had any rolling stock or other equipment, but had been operated by the Rock Island until about three months ago, when there was absolutely no business, except an occasional passenger. Soule came here recently, and after looking over his property, went to Chicago, where he sold the ties and rails to railroad contractors, who could use them in Texas. When the purchasers went to take up the track they were opposed by the people of Gray county. Soule and his assistants glaim that as the public contributed

The Work of "Healing" Progressing-The Usual Number Give Testimony That They Have Been

There was another crowded house at the meeting conducted by the "healing evangelist," at Temperance Temple last evening. Invalids and paralyitics were numerous, and there was quite a sprinkling of those who had evidently been attracted from curlosity.

The meeting opened by the singing of a number of hymns familiar to most of the audience, and of a character appropriate to the occasion. An invitation to those who had been healed to testify as to their healing was then given.

One woman said that at one time she was a helpiess invalid, and was given up by her physicians as one whose chances for being able to be up again were hopeless. She was at present able to walk five or ten miles without great fatigue. She kept no medicine in her home.

One man said had heart disease ten years ago. He was nearly helpless from it? Since then he had, through faith, been freed from it. He was at present seeking to be healed from another physical aliment.

Prayer was offered for the healing of the sick, and it was announced that the meetings would continue afternoons and evenings except on Saturday and Monday afternoons, for probably three or four weeks, and perhaps longer.

Evangelist Warnon delivered a brief discourse, in which he urged that those who told of what they had seen should be careful about what they said, so that there might not be erroneous reports circulated.

A child was shown in the arms of its mother which, so it was stated, had up to the night before, had curvature of the spine. The spine had immediately become straight and had remained so since. The child had slept much better during the past twenty-four hours, and appeared to be much improved.

A boy, whose mother said that he had for some years not spoken clearly, was, after having hands laid on him asked to repeat a short sentence loud and strong. The boy repeated it distinctly, though not very loud.

time, and that without taking morphine.

A young woman who said she could only hear when spoken to loudly, had hands laid on her. Mr. Warnon thea stood several feet away and spoke in a whisper asking her if she could understand. She said she could, and appeared to be exceedingly happy because of her hearing having been restored.

A young woman whose statement was that she was suffering from curvature of the spine had hands laid on her. She placed her hand to her back, and, with much apparent joy, said he curvature was straightened. Her mother being called to the platform, said after examining, that her daughter's condition was much improved.

A young man, whose statement was that his right side was paralyzed, and that his power of speech was almost gone, demonstrated, after having hands laid on him, that he could use his right arm and leg in an apparently wonderful manner. He also repeated a sentence dictated to him. A man who indicated that he was a companion of this one, acknowledged that there had been a wonderful change.

In nearly all of the cases, the statement of previous disease or disability, as made by the person suffering from it, is read by Mr. Warnon as written by the person making it. He then usually asks the person to acquiesce in the statement as read, which is done.

THE SOCIAL EVIL:

Regulation or the Sup-

and value to the following symwhich has been secured for mes, and in which careful is of the social problem give i clear expression to their con-on a subject of great and per-

It is hardly necessary for me to say nat it is the business and the duty of police officer to enforce the law as a finds it, and whether the law is or is not in accord with his personal views and theories. It is, therefore, in no sense of impugning that duty that I reply to the inquiry as to my views on a subject that has for ages challenged the attention of law-makers and moralists. We learn from an incident in the Bible that the so-called social evil flourished and was tolerated in the age of the patriarchs, and no doubt the early civilization of Egypt had that evil for one of its features, for it is safe to presume that if there were female outcasts in Palestine, then a comparatively primitive region, the same class was much more numerously represented in the great and crowded cities of the Egyptians. We know that the courtesan class was tolerated in Athens and in Rome, the centers of ancient empire, both intellectual and military, and that in Athens women of the kind in question sometimes achieved great distinction and influence. And so the world has gone on ralists. We learn from an incident certain cities of England. I have ed that in the recently published oirs of the Duke du Pasquier, who Prefect of Police in Paris under Prefect of Police in Paris under first Napoleon, attention is given his subject, and the Duke describes might and with some pride the sucoff his efforts as Prefect of Police take the social evil as little injurias possible to the public. He does hint at suppression as being posin Paris in his day. I may add Pasquier's character for honesty personal morality is not quesed in history. It commanded the urd even of the first Napoleon.

I have have said, it is for the police to enforce the law, without regard to results. At the same time I express a sincere hope that whatever can be done will be done for the reformation of the erring, and every sincere, humane and judicious movement of the kind will have my earnest sympathy. It may be added, however, that the blame for being unfortunate and outcast does not always rest upon the unfortunate and the outcast, and that some of the admonitions addressed to that class might well be pointed in other directions. There would be far less of the social evil if the good people, and especially the clergy of this and of every other city would do all that is possible to inculcate respect for womanly virtue and to promote moral conduct on the part not only of females, but also of males. All that the police can be called upon or expected to do, is to enforce the law against the poor unfortunate, of so many of whom it can be said, in language not less true because it is so familiar, that they are more sinned against than sinning. It is also not to be forgotten that these outcasts are but one party to the sin, and that both their sex and the circumstances plead irresistibly for humane and considerate treatment.

THOMAS BYRNES.

THE VIEWS OF JACOB A. P. P. S. What are we to do with the social evil—and what do I think of it? I think, to begin with, it is a bootless discussion We are not honest about it. We talk all around it, not squarely at it. We will not hear of licensing it, yet we own that we cannot suppress it. We require the police to keep it under so that it shall not offend—an illegal business yielding a revenue—thus creating absolutely ideal conditions for blackmail, fairly putting a premium on it. And then we raise our hands in horror at finding blackmail there.

Would I license it then? No. I have observed it where it was licensed, and it was much more apparent there than in New York, very much more. And that, as it appears, is the thing to avoid. The only point to be gained would be the elimination of the chance for blackmail. THE VIEWS OF JACOB A. RIIS.

That might, or it might not follow. The license would have to be a very direct kind of one, with no buts or ifs about it, or the keeper of such a resort might not after all, be safer than the less discussion. Nothing good can come of it.

By the way, is it not the oddest part of it all that we should expect good of any kind to come in any way out of evil—evil of this sort at that, the oldest piece of original sin there is?

I know only one thing I would certainly do. I would remove politics from within the reach of it, that is to say, out of the Police Department, if the police must deal with the subject. Politics has a marvelous faculty of appropriating—to itself the taint of all the wickedness it comes into contact with, and of returning the poison intensified a hundred fold.

Politics by itself is all right—and so are the police. There is no better body found anywhere when it comes to huntre down a thief or crush a mob as New York well knows! It is the combination of politics and a nefarious trade like this under one police hat that works.

where they are and as they are. Each center of moral contagion by this scattering process becomes ten or twenty, planted where it will do the most possible harm. Think of the example held up before the hardworking young women—not to mention the young men—of tile tenements, who come home from the shop tired and freezing in their poor rags, to encounter this creature in velvets and furs sallying forth to a night of roistering—pleasures as it must seem to them—after a day of rest. Think of the effect of it in this hard winter with the thousands of young women looking vanly for work. For if there be ever so little money to pay for woman's honest work, there is always enough to buy her virtue. How long before, with this spectacle on one hand and starvation on the other, she will follow where this woman leads?

Have the tenement houses moral resources that can be trusted to, keep her safe from this temptation?

This is a wicked villainy that must not be perpetrated, come whatever else may. What sort of a cowardly plea is that for "our young men," and what sort of young men must they be that would risk the sacrifice of their poor sisters for their own safety? And it is being risked wherever houses of this kind are being shut up and the women turned into the street. The jail does to keep them; Christian families will not receive them; they cannot be killed. They have to go somewhere, unless some door opens to them. And they go where they think they can hide from willing they shall have, though it says it is not.

This is the risk to be avoided at any and every cost, and not by taking care merely of those who will reform. Those who will not reform are by all odds the most dangerous. There will have to be a good many homes established to take them in, for taken in they must be, somehow, or the end will be worse than the beginning. By all means, let us remove temptation, not merely move it from the avenues where it offends the rich, to the tenements where it it from the avenues where it offends the rich, to the tenements where it may corrupt the poor. God knows they have burdens and temptations enough without adding that.

For the rest, let every man sweep before his own door, and sweep clean. Perhaps then we shall hear no more of this whole miserable business, JACOB A RIIS. VIEWS OF ELIZABETH CADY STANTON gamic marriage is the law, and thus far statesmen and philanthropists have found no satisfactory way of dealing found no satisfactory way of dealing with the question.

In mitigating the evils of society there are two points for consideration, one the surface and temporary facts, the other fundamental causes.

The surface question whether it is better for the State to recognize this evil and regulate it, has been discussed and tried in all countries, and as yet there is no agreement of opinion among and tried in all countries, and as yet there is no agreement of opinion among moralists. Like the liquor traffic, it is difficult to regulate a preverted appetite, or mitigate the penalties by law, especially when its victims are innumerable and in all classes of society.

Hence I shall deal with the causes of the evil and suggest the radical work by which men and women can be lifted to a higher plane of companionship.

As the mother is the great factor in and women.

It will take time, but the work can be accomplished. It took 300 years to build an Egyptian pyramid; twelve generations of men spent their lives on that one object. Was not the labors of those who cleared and covered the ground, as important as of those who iaid the cap stones at last. So those who will begin today more rational training for girls, will lay the foundation for that grand type of womanhood that shall yet redeem the race. that shall yet redeem the race. ELIZABETH CADY STANTON.

VIEWS OF HELEN CAMPBELL. VIEWS OF HELEN CAMPBELL.

To the student of sociology it is very plain that we are to deal, not with men's ideas of what social phenomena ought to be, but with what they are. The phenomena themselves spring from a foundation laid in the nature of man, and, where the physical influences are stronger than the spiritual, appear with almost automatic regularity. Legislation in such cases, unless it approaches the standpoint of the

Those who know the real lives of the women on whom public attention is temporarily fixed, know that the larger proportion were in the beginning either innocent victims of man's lust, or yielded through love to find themselves betrayed, forsaken and with no doors open save these that it is added ruin to enter. That we must add to this list a small proportion who deliberately choose the life makes no difference in the fact they do not sin alone, and that side by side with what we call the "fallen women" stands the no less fallen man, her partner in the offense. Till the same justice is measured out to both, no law, legislative or ethical, can righteously touch these offenders who are first driven by society into these refuges, and are now driven out by the same force—in both cases stupidly blind to the real aspects of the position.

The remedy can never be born of the law. The very legislators whose edict closed those doors, stole from them to the council chamber, and will steal again to other doors of the same ground. The law of supply and demand works inevitably here as elsewhere, and the sociologist accepts the fact and looks only to education and the growth and elevation of the moral sense as the way out of these shadows. There is no remedy save in the soul of man intelf, and the creation of a new ideal of manhood and womanhood, and this ideal, society itself makes well nigh impossiremedy save in the soul of man itself, and the creation of a new ideal of manhood and womanhood, and this ideal, society itself makes well nigh impossible of attainment.

So long as we pack our working classes into tenement houses where indecency becomes compulsory, and life must be lived under conditions that are death to health, either moral or physical, so long will this army receive at our hands the recruits it needs. We add to this a starvation wage, and the evils of overwork; we give only here and there any suggestion of gehuine industrial education that would make the earning of a living wage more practicable, and we demand for one sex a standard of morality which we refuse to apply to the other. In short, we legalize injustice and then marvel at the result. Society thus first lays the foundation for the evil and presently seeks with hue and cry to extirpate it. Until the point is reached where it knows itself responsible, and seeks to eliminate causes, these spasmodic outbreaks of indignation at the work of its own hands are purely farcical, and as powerless for real good as they are senseless in method and result.

CAPACITY OF THE BRAIN.

(Cassell's Magazine:) Surely, minute portions of the brain may contain a great deal. The cells vary in size from one three-hundredth of an inch in diameter to one three-thousandth; and this being known, it is not difficult to estimate the entire number of them in the brain. Dr. Hooke, the mathemetician, said 3,155,760,000; but according to Maynert's calculation the number of cerebral cells is only 600,000,000.

Seeing that the doctors differ, let us use the slate and pencil ourselves. The thinking power of the brain is believed to reside in the gray matter of the surface. This is a sheet of cellular nerve substance, which is crumpled into convolutions through being confined within the narrow limits of the skull. If it (Cassell's Magazine:) Surely, minute

The first step in this reform is to educate, elevate and emancipate women from the old-idea of subjection and dependence. To begin with the girls, they must be trained to self-support, to self-respect, to the dignity of pecuniary independence. Alexander Hamilton said long ago, "Give a man a right over my subsistence and he has a power over my whole moral being." The victims in this phase of social life are impelled by various motives. A real affection in some cases, holds the better class, but men, are generally prompted by lust and the women by the need of money. Hence, just as other, and more, profitable avenues are opened to them, and education refines their tastes and associations, the ranks of these social pandemoniums will be gradually depleted.

One Reason Why English People Can Keep Up an Appearance of Wealth.

The English and the Americans are both rich, but which are the richer?
Perhaps the statisticians know, or can find out, says Harper's Weekly, but it is not certain that the statistical answer would give the information that one really wants, and which involves the distribution of wealth as well as its mere existence. Most Americans have to work, but, as is well known, a considerable portion of English people toil not nor spin, and make no pretense of doing anything for a living. Is that because the English are richer than we,
or is it a matter of taste or as a result of primogeniture? So also it appears (from close study of documents submitted by Anthony Trollope and other contemporaneous historians) that British gentlemen in respectable circumstances employ from five to fifty servants and have several houses apiece, all of which they live in, and travel much besides. An American who lives in that way is looked upon as a man of very exceptional resources, but it would seem that an English gentleman who very exceptional resources, but it would seem that an English gentleman who seem that an English gentleman who does not live in that way is thought to be somewhat straightened. At this time of year in England there are three or four hundred hunt clubs in active operation, and something like twenty thousand Britishers ride pretty regularly to hounds. But hunting is an expensive sport that takes both time and money. These English seem to have both and to spare, and that although these present times are not reckoned as times of special prosperity in Great Britain.

in Great Britain.

A returned traveler was speaking, the other day, of the shoals of agreeable English people he met in the Riviera and in all the play places of Southern Europe. When asked if they were rich people he said not, but—that they were able to live as they did because they knew how and got their money's worth. He thought, too, that the well-to-do English had a more complete domestic apparatus ready to hand plete domestic apparatus ready to hand the well-to-do English had a more complete domestic apparatus ready to hand than most of the Americans, and could spend a larger proportion of their incomes on travel and amusement. Houses and furniture and such expensive vanities they had already by inheritance, and were not compelled to spend useful money in providing them. Regarding the English habit of publishing novels in three bound volumes! Would the Americans buy novels in such costly form? Are not all the habits of living that we borrow from the such costly form? Are not all the habits of living that we borrow from the British, from dock-tailed horses to indoor men-servants, more costly than the customs they supersede? They must have a great deal of money to spend, those enterprising islanders. No one would hesitate to say that the Americans are richer than the Russians or the Italians or the Germans

HAVING FUN WITH A GLASS EYE.

The Old Indian Wanted One That He Could See With.

(New York Sun:) The old pioneers had settled down for their smoke in the brain room of the Montana Club, when Hugh McQuaid remarked:

"I see that some smart newspaper man down East has started a rumor that the Crow Indians will get out."

down East has started a rumor that the Crow Indians will get out of their blankets in the spring and clean up the settlers and the United States Army. I would bet that a lot of cigar Indians would fight just as quick. Why a Crow hasn't got the courage of a jack-rabbit to fight. The only trait of a white man—that is, some white men outside of this room—that a Crow has got, is humor.

TODAY, TUESDAY, January 2, we start our great Midwinter Reduction Sale, and for the next 60 days will close out all surplus stocks at greatly reduced prices. $100,000 worth of staple Dry Goods, Fancy Goods, Ladies' and Gent's Furnishing Goods, Domestic and House Furnishing Goods to be disposed of regardless of original cost, stock to be slaughtered, prices annihilated. These goods consist of the best of our stock, and under ordinary circumstances would have been closed out during the months of October and November, but owing to the stringency of the money market, and the corresponding dull times, this vast amount of Dry Goods remains in our warerooms unsold. We have used the knife unsparingly on the prices of our stock, and have left nothing undone that will tend to make this the most successful clearance sale in Los Angeles. This stock must be reduced within 60 days. The prices we have placed on the goods will move them quickly; if you want the pick of the stock, make your selections as early as possible. If we promised each visitor during this sale a big silver dollar, our store would not hold the crowds eager to avail themselves of our generosity. We do still better. We promise to save our customers many a dollar during this great Reduction Sale. The more you buy the more you save from prices asked elsewhere. Come early and often and avail yourself of this opportunity of buying Dry Goods at greatly reduced prices. Now is the time to lay in your supply of Dry Goods for present and future needs. winter Exhibit Which Can Only Seen in Southern California-Sports.

Monday, January 1, 1894, will stand pre-eminent as the greatest day in Pasadena's history, for another year,

It was Tournament of Roses day, as a side-issue to New Year's day, and the combination worked to perfection.

Four previous tournaments had been Four previous tournaments had been held under the same management, but never was there a tournament like, that of '94. The weather was exactly right, a partly cloudy sky preventing the sun's rays becoming too warm; the crowd was as good-hunmored as it was immense, and all the details of the arrangements, worked as smoothly as if they had ball-bearings.

Special care was taken to correct the mistakes of previous years. Abundant mistakes of previous years. Abundant facilities were provided for getting to and from the park at reasonable rates, a plentiful supply of provisions, including several thousand plates of strawberries and hundreds of watermelone were served in satisfactory style, teams were fed and cared for for a nominal consideration and ample seating capacity was provided for all. Futhermore, the races were conducted by competent judges, and went off without much delay. The best of order was maintained, and the track was kept cleared of people and stray teams. Altogether the tournament was a success. a plentiful supply of provisions, in-

MAGNIFICENT PAGEANT.

The festivities opened in the morning, with the parade of the decorated teams, which was by far the largest ever seen in Pasadena. The procession formed on Orange Grove avenule, with the right resting on Cotorado street. Shortly after 10 o'clock the word was given to march.

F. F. Rowland, as chief marshal, headed the pageant, on a spirited thoroughbred, and was followed by aids: H. P. Spaulding, in a fanciful costume of Mexican caballero; Dr. Henry Manomber, W. R. Staats, Dr. H. H. Sherk, Walter L. Wotkyns, C. D. Daggett, N. W. Bell, J. R. McClintock, and W. S. Wright, each well mounted, and wearing conspicuously the club colors.

Next in line marched the Douglas band of Los Angeles, discoursing martial music, followed by a number of riders of both sexes, most conspicuous among whom were Antone Walters, in the picturesque costume of a Spanish courier; Miss Nelmes, in a pink, bifurcated habit, and Miss Hansen, on a fine black pony, with white trappings. Miss Hansen was attired in a white habit, and presented a very picturesque appearance.

The Columbia Hill Tennis Club was

Miss Hansen was attreed in a white habit, and presented a very picturesque appearance.

The Columbia Hill Tennis Club was next represented by a bevy of youths and maidens, club members.

The old-time Horace Greeley coach, famous in its trip across the continent, was called again into requisition, and in the efficient hands of Misses Greenleaf and Shoemaker, proved a masterpiece of artistic design. The coach, decorated in Watteau effect, white and silver, with gorgeous rose trimmings, relieved by livy green and laurestina, was drawn by six black horses, noticeable anywhere, with their nodding pampas plumes and white, silver-fringed saddle cloths. The coach was attended by four outriders, E. O. Hull, Arthur Dodworth, Ray Conger and John Daggett, in white tennis suits, carrying rose twined racquets. The top of the coach was crowded with young girls in picturesque white tennis dresses, wide leghorn hats, wreathed in roses, and over all floated the handsome silken Columbia Hill flag, in white and silver, and the elegant prize banner awarded the club at last year's Rose Tournament. The interior of the coach was occupied by Misses Greenleaf and Shoemaker, R. H. Shoemaker and G. W. Parsons of Los Angeles, who acted as chaperones, for the youthful, party.

This was followed by Morgan's tally-originality of the design, faultiessness of execution, and truthfulness of details, this entry into the lists distanced all competitors. The coach itself, yellow and black, was decorated entirely in Spanish colors, red and yellow, yellow accadas and red geraniums being the flowers used. This coach was drawn by six handsome bays, with saddle cloths of yellow, bearing the ramparit lion of the royal flag of Spain. Conchman and footman were attired in full Spanish costume, and the coach was occupied by nine Valley Hunt young ladies, wearing the historical costume of the Province of Valence, worn in Spain as late as 1820. These were chaperoned by three matrons, in the black lace-mantilla, high-back combed costume of the Spanish duenna, carrying the coquettish fans, indispensible to the Spanish fans, indispensible to the Spanish woman. Six yogths, mounted on black ponies, accompanied this coach, and were dressed in exact costume of Spanish outriders.

Next in line came Wiley & Greely's six-in-hand, new coach, skillfully plioted by Mr. Greely himself, and entered by Hotel Green. This coach was gay in the red and green banners of the Green, and was occupied by a merry party from that well known hostiery. The six white horses were conspicuous in the procession, with their unique and artistic saddle blankets, bearing the monogram of the hotel.

The coach was occupied by guests of the hotel, attired in white, carrying parasols of red and white. The entry was worthy of the famous hostlery, and attracted universal admiration.

The Valley Hunt Club was again represented by a three-seated buckboard four-in-hand, gracefully trimmed in pepper green and sunflowers, the ladies in the turnout carrying huge Japanese umbrellas, covered with yellow daisles and sunflowers, making a pretty picture.

A handsomely-decorated coach from the Tally-ho stables, Los Angeles, next followed, entered by the Spaulding, and filled with guests of that popular house. The coach was beautiful in Japanese honey-suckle and ivy, and was one of the finest of the four-in-hand entries.

This was closely followed by one of the most elaborately-decorated conveyances in the procession, a double team entered by Col. J. C. Newton of Los Angeles. The carriage was almost entirely covered with evergreen. At the back an American eagle was a unique and appropriate decoration for a conveyance bearing a youthful goddess of liberty draped in an American flag. Outriders accompanied this entry, two young girls mounted on black ponies in black habits, wearing sliver helmets and carrying sliver shields. The horses were appropriately decorated, and the entry was one of the most original and pleasing in the entire procession.

A mery party in a prettily-decorated four-in-hand coach from the Afroyo Vista followed. The trimmings of this conveyance were principally pepper branches and berries, but were arranged with an idea of artistic effect, and made a very meritorious showing.

Col. G. G. Green, in his handsome family T-cart, next followed in a the procession, and Altadena was represented by a three-seated, prettily-decorated surrey, drawn by three hays abreast, and occupied by several fair young girls in costumes of red and white. This entry was made by E. Dana.

F. B. Taylor's pony carriage next came in line, preceded by outriders, a tiny boy and girl in picturesque costumes of yellow and, black, mounted on Shetland ponies prettily decorated. A team of spotted Shetland ponies were in harness, and the phaeton was festooned in cypress and roses, with a wide-spreading umbrella top, covered in cypress and callas, and masses of foses banked at the back.

Several handsomely-decorated family carriages followed J. B. Veach's two-scated surrey, profusely decorated in flowers of all kinds, the canopy top surmounted with pampas phumes, and corners gay with American flags, the horses draped in yellow bunting. This was followed by H. J. Cones's private carriage of South Pasadena, which was simply but attractively trimmed with pepper boughs and roses.

Among the handsomely decorated family carriages, that of G. H. Rogers was notable for elaborateness of design and minuteness of execution. A full description would require unlimited space. Most conspicious among the many fancies carried out, was a butterfly at the surrey's side, made of green fan-palms, with red and green ribbons woven in the spreading wings. At the back of the surrey was a jack-rabbit in immortelles; the castor oil bean was largely introduced on shafts and in a fringe at the back. The fioral decoration was principally in red and yellow. Red and yellow silken rosettes ornamented the handsome white horse which drew the equipage, and the effect was gorgeous in the extreme.

E. White's family carriage, prettily draped in green and bright blossoms, followed by F. C. Bolt's handsome surrey, decorated in smilax and white ribbon bows, next fell in line, while the pony-cart of Hiram Staats', in white and yellow, was a state and with calla lillies and edificient green to give an effective background, Mr. Staats and Miss Visscher, both attitude in white lace parasol. No dainter picture can be imagined.

Along the line followed the family carriages of James Doty, natural-wood cart, decorated by an artistic hand with calla lists, were conspicuous a minature steamer, the Hermosa, drawn on an express cart by a venturesome wheelman, and a lad in salior costume flying through the streets with a wide-spread sail at the front of his wheel. Another odd design was that of the Crown of the Valley—surmounting a silver star and key, and beautifully decorated with smilax and pink roses.

Behind the cyclists came a long procession of the carriages of our prominent merchants, led by Craig Bros. and Kelley, Kennedy & Co., with a four-horse team with outriders, Breiner & Crosby, the proprietors leading, and five delivery wagons with their snowy white covers following, made an imposing sight. The New York Wall-paper House, Helen Bros., Storey & Munger swelled the number, and the Blum Lumber Company and J. F. Halsted's poultry cart added to the procession, which stretched out indefinitely, including many of our business houses and private conveyances imposible to mention.

THE RACES.

It was 12:15 o'clock when the ranchman's race, the first event on the programme, was run. This was a one-mile dash, thoroughbreds barred. All the horses entered were supposed to have done regular ranch work within three weeks prior to the race. There were six starters: A. J. Alsop's McGinty, J. A. Edwards's Radius, J. O. Bodkin's Genia, Richardson & Alsop's Los Flores, George Tom's Nellie, L. Wiggins's Jack, Angel Ramirez's El Mora. The race was easily won by Los Flores, Genia second; time 2:03. ensued, which resulted in the Judges ordering that the race be run over again.

Then there was a long delay while the track was being scraped preliminary to a three-mile handicap bicycle race. Mr. Covarrubias of Los Angeles, however, succeeded in entertaining the spectators by lassoing any rider that happengd to pass along the track. There were the following starters in the bicycle race: W. Stewart, 150 yards; E. D. G. Cambell, 300 yards; E. Gamble, 50 yards; Charles Glass, scratch. The race was highly exciting from start to finish. Cambell however, had been given a lead that his competitors could not overcome, and won, with Glass a close second, Gamble finished third, and Stewart was distanced; time 10;18½. First prize, gold medal; second prize, silver medal. R. H. Hertel acted as starter in the bicycle races. Following was a mile hurdle race, with three starters, J. A. Edmonds's Tony, J. A. Parker's Fanny, and a horse named Kitty. It was one of the prettiest races of the day, and was won with a grand-stand finish by Fanny, with Kitty second; time 2:27. Next in order was an egg and spoon race. Each rider received a spoon with an egg in it, which he was supposed to carry with one hand without breaking it, from the judge's stand up the home stretch and return. Should the egg fall, the competitor had to replace in the spoon without assistance, or return to the starting point and get another egg. There were numerous starters. There was a spirited trotting match between two spans of horses, owned by J. L. Roce and N. A. Covarrublas, which was won by the Rose horses. The first heat was trotted in 2:46.

A half-mile dash for ponies under 13 hands high, was won by Charles Adams's Lightfoot, with a horse ridden by Victor Romero second. There were several other starters. First prize, suit of boy's clothes; second prize, riding leggings.

The closing event was a burro race, in which the animals and the boys who rode them became so hopelessly tangled up that at the time of sending in this report the judges were still trying to make out who won.

For a month past he has worked unceasingly in the interest of the affair, and to his personal efforts is to be attributed the secret of its successful carrying out. He was, however, aided by a large and competent corps of workers, lady and gentlemen members of the Valley Hunt.

George Senter was knocked down by a running horse in the steeplechase, but escaped with a few bruises about the head. This was the only accident that appened at the grounds, so far as is known.

The New Racing Rules of the L. A. W.

Amateurs Now Divided Into Two Classes.

Records-General Sporting Notes.

The junior football team of the High School visited Whittier yesterday, and celebrated New Year's day by gaining a decisive victory over the Reform School team, after a hotly-contested game, by a score of 20 to 4. The visitors started out with the ball, but the Whittier boys soon obtained possession of it, and by some very clever team work carried it over their opponnent's line. The tables were turned shortly afterward, however, and the Juniors scored a safety, and three touch-downs in rapid succession.

During the course of the game, the Whittier Band discoursed music. The junior football team of the High

A GREAT BOAT RACE.

Says Pringle, in the Pittsburgh Dispatch: "Quite suddenly and unexpectedly comes the hope of a boat race between the best of our college crews and the famous Oxford (England) crew. Newspaper reports the other day told us that representatives of the Oxford oarsmen were in this country trying to arrange for a race. The English rowers will come here and row the winners of the Harvard and Yale races, providing their, the Oxonians, expenses are paid. They also want to be paid for a month's training in this country. It may be that if these conditions are insisted on there will be no race. The demand, as things go nowadays, is not an unreasonable one. Formerly, and not very long ago at that, amateurs, that is the real, simon-pure article, would travel from hemisphere to hemisphere to contest, and never think of demanding expense money. But 'the schoolmaster' has been abroad, as Macaulay would say, and we find precious few amateurs who are in the respective kinds of sports for the mere love of it; that is, their love is not strong enough to prompt them to make personal sacrifices. Almost all kinds of amateurs, so-called, want 'expense money' nowadays, and if they are star attractions in the business they get it. Local L.A.W. people know this. Alleged amateur bicycle riders were here not long ago, and their charges were very heavy indeed. One rider squeezed the poor Pittsburghers for $300 to appear on the track He got it. That was 'expense money,' you know, and he would sell his prizes, no doubt, to pay his secretary, manager and shoe-shiner. So that there is nothing wonderful in the gentlemen of Oxford wanting their expense paid.

"It would, indeed, be a very great measure to every patron of honest A GREAT BOAT RACE. Says Pringle, in the Pittsburgh Dis

"It would, indeed, be a very great "it would, indeed, be a very great pleasure to every patron of honest sport if a race could be arranged between our best college crew and the Oxford crew. It is a long time since we had a test of merit between our best amateur crew and the best of the Britishers. We have had recently a test between our scullers and the best of the English scullers; that is, amateurs, and we have not shown up very well in the comparison. Somehow or other these Britishers have almost always been ahead of us in amateur rowing, but nobody can safely say today that the English have a better college crew than the United State Were there to be a race between of collegians and the English, depend upon it there would be lots of money behind the Americans. It will be a very pleasing thing, indeed, if a race is arranged between the two crews." Americans. It will be a very asing thing, indeed, if a race is arged between the two crews."

LA.W. RACING RULES.

Among the new rules recently adopted by the racing board of the L. A.W. are the following, dividing amateurs into two classes, which will doubtless prove of interest to local wheelmen: Class A.—An amateur of class A is one who has not engaged in or assisted in, nor taught cycling or any other recognized athletic exercise for money or other remuneration, nor knowingly competed with or against a professional for a prize of any description; or one who, after having forfeited the amateur status, has had the same restored by a competent authority having jurisdiction LAW RACING RULES.

ompetent authority having jurisdiction wer the sport. A cyclist ceases to be a amateur of class A by: (a) encouragover the sport. A cyclist ceases to be an amateur of class A by: (a) encouraging in cycling or other recognized athletic exercise, or personally teaching, training or coaching any person therein, either as a means of obtaining a livelihood, or for a wager, money prize or gate money; (b) competing with a professional, or making pace for, or having the pace for himself made by such in public or for a prize; (c) selling, pawning, bartering or otherwise turning into cash, or in any manner realizing cash upon any prize won by him; (d) accepting directly or indirectly, any remuneration, compensation or expense whatever for cycling; (e) in this class no prize shall exceed $15 in value, and such prizes shall be limited to medals, wreaths, diplomas, plate and jewelry only; (f) competing with amateurs of class B, and having once lost his status in class A, cannot recover it or be restored thereto.

Class B.—An amateur of Class B shall be a cycle-rider who may compete in public for pay or remuneration for riding, but shall not compete for a cash or divisible prize, nor realize upon any prize won by him. A cyclist ceases to be an amateur of Class B by (a) engaging in cycling or other recognized athletic sports or exercises for a wager, money prize or gate money; (b) competing with a professional or making pace for, or having the pace made for himself by such in public for a prize (c) selling, pawning, or otherwise tring into cash, or in any mannizing cash upon any prize won by inno cash, or in any mannizing cash upon any prize won by inno cash, or in any mannizing cash upon any prize won by inno any prize trivion in invitor teurs of class g in cycling or other recognized athplays in the game. To be sure, the play cannot be made a gentle one, and no admirer of it would like to see it such, but some of its roughest features can, with good results, be eliminated. If the proposed reforms in the rules are carried out the game will become more popular. We will have more teams in all parts of the country, and-next year's play will be anticipated with much curiosity. It may be that new rules will necessitate new tricks, and just as soon as these new rules are agreed upon, the coachers of the leading college teams will get to work to find out new methods of play. This is sure to make the game more interesting next year than it has been this year.

But whatever is done with the rules, there is one thing that we can rely next year than it has been this year.
But whatever is done with the rules, there is one thing that we can rely on. viz., that the game will be no less popular next season than it has been during the season just ended. Its popularity may increase, but it will not wane. What we should all do, then, is to try and make the game as safe to life and limb as possible. If everybody interested in it strives for this object, it will be accomplished.

MISSING WINSTON.

The Last Seen of the Unfortunate Man.

A Member of the Party, of Which He Was terious Disappearance in the Mountains.

Palmer T. Reed, one of the Winston party, writes The Times as follows concerning the unfortunate man's dis

"Several accounts of the loss of L. C. Winston have been published, which are, in many particulars, incorrect. I would like to give a plain statement of the facts to nis many friends. Winston, Brown and myself were camped in Buck Horn Canyon, an elevated canyon on the north side of Mt. Waterman, and, by the trails, twenty-five miles northeast of Wilson's Peak. Friday morning, November 17, we woke up in the midst of a heavy snowstorm. Fearful of being snowed in, we commenced preparations to get off this high point and travel toward home. I started to get breakfast, while Winston and Brown went out to hunt up the burros.

"We could not hear the bell burro, and Winston gave it as his opinion that 'the burros had gone on to Mt. Waterman, and were traveling for home via the Chillao.' I did not agree with him, but he said 'he would go up and see.' He went out from camp, separating in a few hundred yards from Brown, and no track or trace of him has since been seen. Brown found the burros close to camp, and we blew our hunting-horn and fired rifles to recall Winston, but he was beyond hearing. Soon the snow and intense cold drove us into our tent and blankets, and kept us there until the next (Saturday) morning.

Soon the snow and intense cold drove us into our tent and blankets, and kept us there until the next (Saturday) morning.

"We concluded Winston, not finding the burros, had gone on; and, not liking to struggle back in the face of the storm, had put up in the Chillao cabin over night, where he would be comfortable, and we had left plenty of provisions. After a hard struggle with the snow, we made the Chillao soon after dark. We went by the canyon route, fearing we could not make headway against the heavy drifts and high winds over Mt. Waterman. No one had been at the cabin. The next day (Sunday) Brown went back to Mt. Waterman, and discovered what we supposed were Winston's tracks, leading into the Chillao. We concluded Winston had gone home, thinking we were snowed in, and perhaps to get help. So on we went. At Pine Flats he had hung two bucks' heads in a tree, to get on the way home. They were gone, and dim tracks led up to them. Afterward, close by, I found a bear's track, which may account for their disappearance. We went home by Wilson's Peak, thinking Winston had returned by Switzer's. He had not arrived, and we knew then he was lost in that terrible storm; and I was convinced we had followed another man's track. Since this has been proven, and we have evidence in his own writing. It is his tracks, and not Winston's, that the search parties followed on Barley Flats and down to Switzer's. Brown and I returned 'mmediately, with a large party, and the search has not yet ceased. A new olive-oil mill has just been put into operation, which turns out fifty gallons of oil per day. The oil received the highest medal at the World's Fair, and a splendid exhibit will be made at the Midwinter Fair. The City Council has started out for public improvements, and during 1894 it is confidently expected that the principal streets will be paved, and many new asphalt walks laid. The webfeet have come down in good numbers this season, and say they are growing tired of the wet weather up North, and propose to reside in sunny Southern California. So it will be seen that Pomona has the right to say "Happy New Year to you!"

POMONA.

A General Review of the Work of the Past Year.

If there is a place in Southern Call-fornia that ought to say "Happy New Year" to all the world, that place is Pomona. A brief review of the work done during the past year, which will long be remembered as the worst year, financially, in the memory of the old-est inhabitant, is particularly refreshing to Pomona people. For, notwith-standing the fact that times have been exceedingly dull, Pomona has taken a steady step forward, and today is in a more prosperous condition than one they have done, as for what they are confident of doing in the near future. They are all thoroughly organized, and have ready sale for all the fruit that is ready for shipment. The Old Settlement Association is preparing to build a packing-house, a new packing-house is to be built on the Seth Richards tract, and one near Claremont by G. W. Ogle.

The freight business done at the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific depots is larger than that done last year, and there have been many more cars of immigrant goods received this season, and many more new families come into the vailey to make it their home in the future.

migrant goods received this season, and many more new families come into the valley to make it their home in the future.

A notable improvement during the past year is the putting in of arc lights for lighting the streets of the city. Pomona is now one of the best-lighted towns in Southern California. The electric light company has found it necessary to add about $75,000 to the plant, and when the new dynamo is placed in position the electricians say the service will be unexcelled. In the United States. A capitalist is also on the way to Fomona who will build an electric railway to Claremont, and then to Ontario and Chino. This, it is confidently states and the stringe in the city could do.

Nothing speaks better for Pomona's business men than the fact that there has been but a single failure, and that was through recklessness and bad management, and the stringeficly had nothing to do with it. This was a dry-goods establishment that no amount of trade gwould have saved. The three banks are as sound as any could be, and have the fullest confidence of the people. The storerooms are all occupied, and the merchanis are not "closing out at cost," nor are the windows filled up with signs of "For Rent," etc.

But in no line of business has there been such a marked improvement as in other words, the Californians must have the fullest confidence of the people. The storerooms are all occupied, and the merchanis are not "closing out at cost," nor are the windows filled up with signs of "For Rent," etc.

Suits Against the Bear Valley Company.

nother Claim of Twenty Thousand Dollars Co. E Has an Annual

Suit has been begun by the Russ Lumber and Mill Company of Redlands against the Bear Valley Irrigation Company, F. P. Morrison, receiver, Baker Iron Works, Pacific Rolling-mill Company, F. W. Townsend, L. H. Ware and others, claiming in interest in the Bear Valley Irrigation property, to recover the sum of $21,912, together with interest and costs, for lumber furnished in the construction of fluming in the big Santa Ana canal. The Russ Company asks to have its claim made a lien upon the canal, and that it be sold to satisfy the claim. Mining interest has not been at such a high tension in a long while as that reached on Saturday, and still maintained. The excitement was brought about by the sale of the Consolidated Good Hope Mining Company's property, in the Pinacate district, by J. M. Signatus president of the company to

CUCAMONGA BEBVITIES.

H. S. Hazeline spent Christmas in Los Angeles.

H. W. Maitland and family are at the North Cucamonga hotel.

Gerhard Ledig of Kansas has purchased twenty acres of R. B. Wilson in the Iowa tract for $30° per acre. He will leave next Friday for Kansas, and will return with his family. He will build a neat residence at once.

Cucamonga has furnished 1000 boxes of oranges to the San Antonio Fruit Exchange, or nearly one-half of all that has been shipped. This certainly speaks well for the orange crop in this vicinity.

All the lemon-growers in Cucamonga have become members of the Lemon-growers, Union, except one, and it is hoped he will soon help out the good cause by becoming a member.

W. H. Denham gave a very enjoyable hop at Kincade Hall on the 23d inst. It was a full-dress affair, and a delicious repast was furnished the guests.

Messrs. Kincade, Vanbibber and Denham are making elaborate arrangements for a New Year's ball. The admission will be free—free to get in and free to get out.

Miss Ida F. Anderson, teacher at North Cucamonga, is spending the holidays with her parents in San Bernardino.

Mrs. J. C. Lynch, Miss Eva Fowler and Mirs. M. G. Fowler, are spending a few days with friends in Los Angeles.

As an evidence of the superior quality of the Cucamonga grapes, it is only necessary to state that while the general average of sugar in the Northern grapes only reaches 18 and 30 per cent., the grapes here run as high as 23 and 35 per cent. of sugar.

(Cucamonga Life:) In the justice's court in North Cucamonga, in the case came up on motion of the defendant's atterney, L. E. Tubbs, Esq., to dismiss the action, on the ground that proper service of sumonn was not made, E. E. Swanton constable of San Bernardino county, having served the summons in Los Angele. The motion was taken under advisement by the court.

It is hoped that Cucamonga will take steps for a fine representation at the Midwinter Fair. A very creditable exhibit of products could be easily made from here. NATIONAL GUARD RECEPTION.

Co. E. N.G.C., following the custom established by it upon its organization, held a reception on New Year's day, from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, to attend which a general invitation was extended to the public. The public appreciated the efforts of the boys to keep open upon this occasion, and there was a generous response to the invitation. When the first reception was held five years ago, wine was served with the refreshments. There was some who objected to the wines, and the next year the W.C.T.U. requested them to omit the liquors, which the boys did. Appreciating this act on the part of the militia of refraining from the use of beverages, so general at the gatherings of military, the W.C. T.U have since joined with the boys in holding these receptions upon New Year's day, and have thus added materially to the enjoyment of the occasion.

At the reception Monday afternoon the officers and members of the Waterman Rifies, who constitute Co. E of the guards, were preşent in uniform as usual. By invitation of the company the following ladies assisted them to receive their friends: Mrs. S. C. Bogart, Mrs. J. E. Klplinger, Mrs. N. H. Ball, Mrs. Willtam Gird, Mrs. A. H. Koebig, Mrs. Seth Marshall, Mrs. Ina A. Wells, Mrs. M. Katz, Mrs. E. M. Depew, Mrs. M. A. Davis, Mrs. James E. Mack, Mrs. C. W. Mettler, Mrs. George L. Bryant, Mrs. F. H. Magoffin, Mrs. D. A. J. Palmer, Mrs. E. A. M. Hicks and others of the W.C.T.U. Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon, and sweet music was discoursed the while by Erbe's full orchestra. This reception is always looked forward to as one of the principal social events of the season, and the one held this year was no exception to the usual order of things in that respect, save that it was rather more enjoyable than its predecessors, and the decorations, chiefly of fern fronds, with palms and peppers, more beautiful than ever.

They are now en route to San Francisco to purchase a stamp mill and other necessary tools, to work the mines rapidly and effectually. The documents filed for the completion of the transfer of this property are six in number, each a voluminous affar. The first authorizes J. M. Sigafus, as president of the company, to dispose of the property as shown by the minutes of a meeting of the directors of the company, and the second shows that the stock-holders indorse the action of the directors, as declared in a resolution passed at a meeting of the former. The third document is the deed of the three mines, and 34.21 acres of land, conveying them to W. H. Griffith, from the Good Hope Consolidated Mining Company, for a consideration of $500,000. The fourth is a similar deed, conveying the same property from J. M. Sigafus to W. H. Griffith, for the same consideration. The fifth of these big documents is a mortgage for $100,000 upon the mines, given to secure the payment on the 1st of next July of four promissory notes, aggregating the above amount, to Mr. Sigafus. The remaining paper is a deed transferring the mines and land from Mr. Griffith to the three Massachusetts men named. Col. Egan is at present manager of the "Pay Rock" mine, near Georgetown, Colo., but as soon as the machinery is purchased at San Francisco he will go back for his family and bring them to Riverside.

The City Council is also very favorably disposed toward the scheme, and will help out with a sbstantial appropriation.

In regard to the proposition to build a line to Pomona, it may be stated that Ontario people will, as a rule, oppose it. The citizens and business men feel that if any line is ever built, Ontario people will build, and will require no assistance from other localities. The people do not think it to Ontario's interest, at least until the lines in the city are completed. A committeeman from the Pomona Board of Trade visited Ontario in the interest of the line, but he received little or no encouragement. In view of these facts it would seem that the first greaf improvement will be the building of the electric line in this place.

CUCATIONIDA.

It is too well known, to be observed that one of California's most peculiar features is the fact that each and every available tract of land of any considerable extent, is fitted, in a great degree, to the production of only one raw commodity for the maintainance of man, or at least to only a few, and to those of like kind. Some extensive regions are for wheat; some for barley; then again for corn and pumpkins; the hog and hominy. A tract is found here and there where the people grow little but beans, however much they may know more than this. There are also regions of beets—also beats. But a most singular exception is found in Cucamonga. There is no hetter citrus country in the 'world. Especially the lemon production is fully equal to that of Ontario, which is all that need be said. All decircular grow to perfection, and here comes last, but not least, the spud—the Irish potato, with an eye to business, and puts larged in the best potato region on the Coast. The production is large, and the potatoes command the biggest price of any in the market. Cucamonga comes to the front this winter with about eighty-five carloads, the land averaging 230 bushels to the acre. ORANGE COUNTY.

The cold sweat of failure came apon it with the exposure of the rot-tenness of the McDonalds in their con-duct of the affairs of the Pacific Bank, duct of the affairs of the Pacific Bank, by which thousands of dollars were lost to innocent people who had intrusted their money to the keeping of that institution. In the investigation it came out that Holder was smutted with the same tilck with which his principals were plackened; that large sums of money had been taken from the funds of the wank in the futile effort to float the magazine, in all of which Holder was shown to be an amzing tool. This was proven by the fact that he had signed dummy notes for thousands of follars, for which he claimed to have received no equivalent.

Holder is succeeded by Livernash, late of the Examiner, who will gnash his teeth, if not his liver, many times before he succeeds in dragging the Californian Illustrated Magazine out of the black mire of failure where it flounders.

EL HAMMOND'S BOND.

Sureties for Less Than Half the Amount Can

The sureties on the bond of E. Ham-mond, the defaulting Tax Collector, against whom judgment was given last eek, are trying to arrange some means some $12,000. It appears, however, that, out of the whole bond of $100,000, the sureties for only about $45,000 can be reached by an execution, and it is on these that the burden will fall if the others have not honor enough to come to the front. To make up the deficit it will require an assessment of about $200 on each $100 on the bond, and this will, of course, be increased in proportion as the sureties default. Of course there is no prospect of reaching some of them. "Smoothy" Boyce is one of the sureties for $5000, which is a dead-loss. Then there are several public officials who accommodatingly loaned their names, and, as they now have no property subject to execution, payment by them is a question of personal honor. It is probable that the solvent bondsmen will liquidate as early as possible, and then bring suit and get judgment against those who fall to pay, which will be held until they do accumulate something. WE ARE STILL SELLING

M. S. Hewes's Stock

65c ON THE DOLLAR!

OF HEWES'S PRICE!

Yesterday we moved down the reserve stock of Mr. Hewes's shoes which were on top of his fixtures, and which we left in his store on account of inability to find room to place them in ours. The basement of our shoe store is chuck-ablock with Hewes's brand new shoes that have just come from the factory, out of the case and into the fixtures, and going at 65 cents on the dollar.

It is to be expected that we are doing a very large shoe business, when the leading stock of shoes in Los Angeles of the foremost manufacturees of the United States is slaughtered at 65 cents on the dollar, it would be surprising if they were not largely sought after.

Do your shoeing in the morning; you will receive the best attention.

Our managers and heads of departments have been instructed that cost is to cut no figure in the sale of goods at A. Hamburger & Sons' establishment during the next 30 days. It is the conversion of goods into money and at the price that will convert them that we are now after. We take stock on the 1st of February. We have an enormous stock of merchandise that must be reduced at any cost, and beg of you in all sincerity that before purchasing elsewhere during the month, come in and consult us, and if we cannot save you lots of money over and above anybody's price we are willing to forfeit your confidence.

our day from various causes, still up to date we have never placed upon our counters the values which are offered to you in this issue.

Every pattern Suit in our house has been reduced from one-third to one-half of its former price. In this connection we desire to say that for the past two years we have been striving for the Dress Goods trade of the town, and to get it we were sensible enough to show our patrons the difference between our prices and those of other establishments. In view of this fact and the further reduction of one-third to one-half, makes our Dress Goods the lowest priced for quality on the Pacific Slope.

75c — Priestley's Black Novelty Suitings, 46 inches wide, all wool and mohair, goods that candidly sell all over the United States at $2 a yard, we cannot buy them again for $1.87\frac{1}{2}6.

55c—Imported French Novelty Dress

Every Jacket or Cape in this de-partiment must be sold. We will not carry over a single garment if price will sell it; there is no half-way business with us; we want to close out all our fall and winter wraps, furs and jackets. We are not making a cut of a dollar, or two or three on a cut of a dollar, or two or three on a round instance less than $4, and from that up to $20 a single garment.

$3.98—Jackets. In an or black, collar trimmed with River Mink, that sold at $12.50; others never jackets, fur edged, handsome materials, this season's make, first-class in every particular; have been our leaders at $8 and $9, and could not be priced for the price in one instance less than $4, and from that up to $20 a single garment.

$5.00 and white price in one instance less than $4, and from that up to $20 a single garment.

55c—Imported French Novelty Dress Goods in noyelty, Moire, Diagonal and Hop Sacking effect; guaranteed imported from France and valued at $1.25 a yard.

75c—Figured Novelty Silks that we have never offered under $1.25; there is a loss to this house of 20 to 25 percent on every yard we sell.

$1.00—High-grade Novelty Silks, exquisite quality, goods that sold at $1.50 and $1.75 all season, and which we think we think have never been offered elsewhere under $2. These silks are certainly worthy of your attention, as we have never offered such values during our business existence.

35c—At our Domestic Dress Goods Department we will sell a line of fancy novelty Dress Goods from $6 to 40 in, wide, all wool, and goods that we have sold heretofore at 50c and 75c. We are in earnest in our offerings; we mean just what we say in this advertisement, and the values that we quote as the worth of the atticle are under $20 the atticle are under $20 the first moder estimated rather than over.

MILLINERY.

MILLINERY.

On Tuesday we commence the greatest clearance sale in Millinery that any establishment has ever attempted in this country. We have decided to close out all our Fall Hats in street colors, ranging in price from $1.50 to $2.50 apiece, and they will be offered to you Tuesday in all shapes at 25c. If this price does not sell them, we will put them in our back yard and start a bonfire. We will also close out the immense line of Feathers and Plumage in prices ranging from 10c to 50c apiece, for goods that have been sold from 50c to $5.

A line of Trimmed Models and imported Pattern Hats that have sold as high as $20 will be on sale at $5 each.

Everything in this department is to be closed out, and we have made such ridiculously absurd prices bonsidering the worth of the articles offered that it will pay you to purchase them for use next season.

10c—For outing flannels, the very finest made; if you pay 25c a yard you cannot get any better.

20c—For fancy novelty elder-downs; these are cotton, but are an imitation of the finest wool goods that sell at 75c.

15c—This is the lowest price that a genuine English sateen, printed in handsome colorings, has ever touched in the United States. These goods, were bought to sell at 35c a yard.

25c-Extra fine quality of English ZSC-EXTR ane quality of Engines printed sateens which we intended to open the spring trade with at 40c. It will pay you to look at these and see the beautiful designs, whether purchasing or not.

$1.50 to $10—Lace Curtains. We were large purchasers at the curtain sales held by the Wilkesbarre Lace Curtain Manufacturing Company in New York. In the history of their manufactory they have never been sold as low. We are in a position now to sell them to you at less than we paid. Guaranteed the greatest bargains in lace curtains you ever purchased.

25c, 35c and 50c—For Linen Towels.

75c, $1, $1.25 and $1.50—For Table Linens. We want to unload a large quantity of fine towels, table linens and napkins; napkins from $3.50 to $12.50 a dozen.

We want you to believe that you can buy the finest table linen and appointments from us that is purchaseable, and at about 65c on the $1.

Ladies' Underwear.

We find our stock in this department to be three times as great as it should be at this season of the year. We haven't space to enumerate prices. You all know that every store keeps underwear from 50c a garment up, so to tell you that we are selling a garment today at $1 that sold heretofore at $1.25 to $1.50 is idie. If you believe our statements, the general one that we have gone through this department and marked it down fully 38 1-8 per cent., will suffice for the appearance of the announcement we have to make. In muslin underwear we have just received an invoice of several thousand
